

Primary key

Definition

A primary key is one or more data element that uniquely identifies a data record.

Relation

Primary key	is child of	data element
Primary key	identifies	data record
Primary key	can be used as link to another data record by a	foreign key

All

From:
<https://datamanagement.wiki/> - Data Management Wiki

Permanent link:
https://datamanagement.wiki/data_concept/primary_key

Last update: 2024/03/08 13:33

