

Primary key

Definition

A primary key is a data element that uniquely identifies a data record.

Note

A primary key can also consists of more than one data element.

From:

<https://datamanagement.wiki/> - Data Management Wiki

Permanent link:

https://datamanagement.wiki/data_concept/primary_key?rev=1676834480

Last update: 2024/03/08 13:33