

Primary key

Definition

A primary key is a data element that uniquely identifies a data record.

Relation

Primary key is subtype of data element.

Note

A primary key can also consists of two or more data elements.

From:
<https://datamanagement.wiki/> - Data Management Wiki

Permanent link:
https://datamanagement.wiki/data_concept/primary_key?rev=1686426181

Last update: 2024/03/08 13:33