

Primary key

Definition

A primary key is one or more data element that uniquely identifies a data record.

Relation

| | | |
|-------------|--------------------------|------------------------------|
| Primary key | is subtype of | data element |
| Primary key | identifies | data record |
| Primary key | can be used as link by a | foreign key |

From: <https://datamanagement.wiki/> - Data Management Wiki

Permanent link: https://datamanagement.wiki/data_concept/primary_key?rev=1687790226

Last update: 2024/03/08 13:33