

Page Format

This page format is used for all wiki pages, if applicable. Headings without corresponding text can be deleted. The page format is explained by an example: Apple tree.

Apple tree

Definition

A apple tree is a tree {superordinate concept} that bears apples {factors that distinguishes a apple tree from other trees}.

See rules for definitions <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Definition>

Synonyms

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Synonym>

Abbreviations

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Abbreviation>

Notes

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Note>

Relations

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Relation>

Examples:

- Subordinates of an apple tree are a Golden Delicious apple trees, a Pink Lady apple trees.
- Apple tree is part of an orchard.
- Parts of an apple tree are: apples, trunk, branches, roots, etc.
- An apple tree is owned by a fruit grower or any other association.
- Instances of an apple tree are: apple tree 1, apple tree 2, etc.

Lifecycle

See http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Life\_cycle

For example:

- Plant an apple tree
- Nurish an apple tree
- Harvast an apple tree
- Cut down an apple tree

Characteristics

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Characteristic> For example:

- Health of an apple tree
- Age of an apple tree
- Maturity of an apple tree

Example(s)

References

See <http://knowledgemanagement.wiki/index.php?title=Reference>

From:

<https://datamanagement.wiki/> - Data Management Wiki

Permanent link:

<https://datamanagement.wiki/wiki/pageformat?rev=1676204404>

Last update: 2024/03/08 13:33

